

BRIGHTTV

Viewership Analytics

---

Introduction

Detailed data analysis of the records obtained from the viewers user profiles and transactions for the BrightTV.

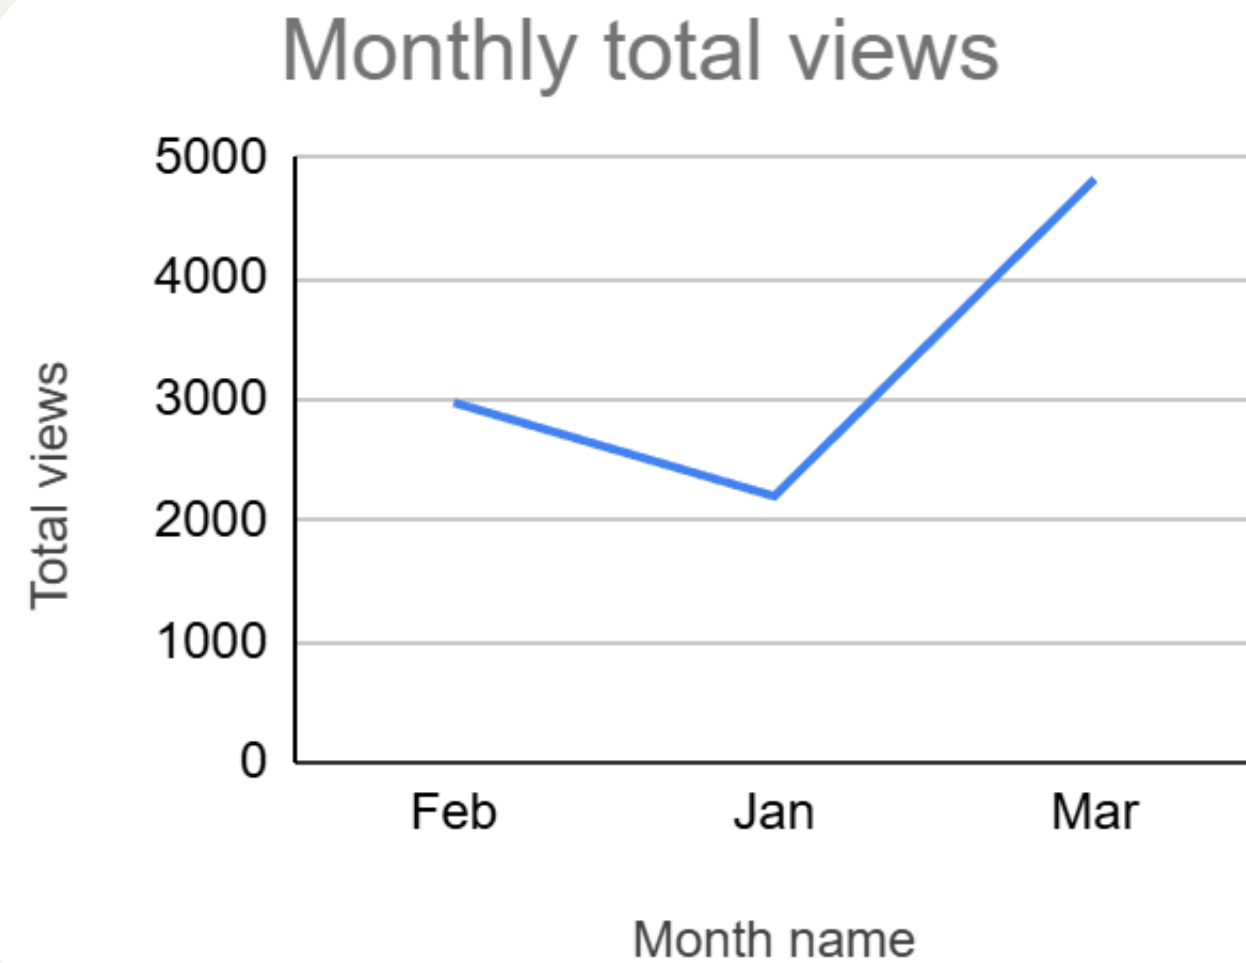

The aim of this analysis is to provide insights that will help support the Customer Value Management team in meeting the year's objective, which is to grow the company's subscription base.

The following areas will be discussed:

- Insights on user and usage trends
- Factors that influence consumption/viewership
- Recommendations to increase viewership

Monthly Overview

- Viewership for the past three months shows impressive growth
- The overall consumption of content shows improvement by more than 50% in March, compared to January
- More effort is still required to maintain the growth rate

Usage Trends

- Supersport Live is the most watched channel
- The viewership is at peak on Fridays and Saturdays, with the morning slot (6am-12pm) being the peak time
- Adults make up more than 50% of the TV viewership,
- Therefore it is advisable to invest in more shows made for adults on channels that has low views to boost their viewership

Factors influencing consumption.

The stats below shows how BrightTV viewership is affected by day of week as well as demographic factors such as age, race, day of week and location

Total views by day of week across age groups.

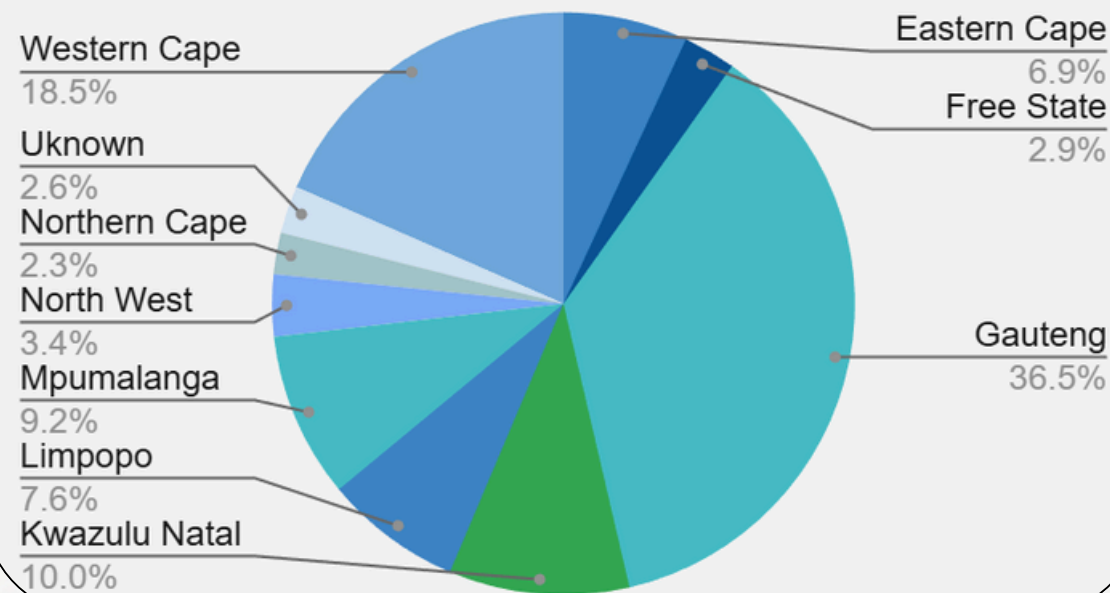

- Adult viewership remains consistent throughout the week
- Females viewership is very poor, more content relatable to females needs to be added to the TV channels

Total views by gender.

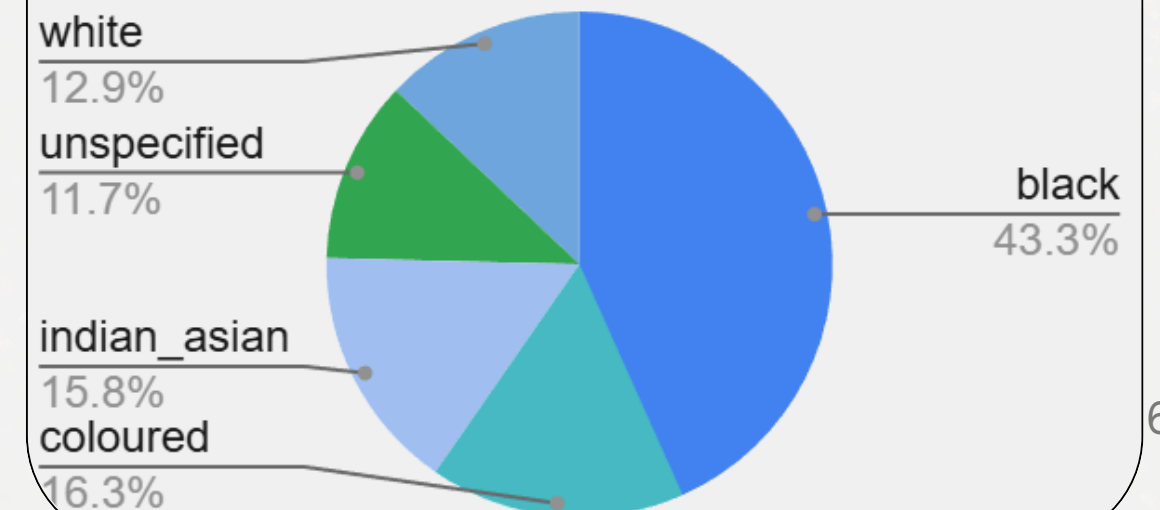

Total views by proviences.

- Gauteng residents make up almost 50% of the TV viewership
- Therefore will be beneficial to introduce shows that are community based that viewers can relate to and keep them engaged

Total views by race

---

Conclusion

- The overall TV viewership seems to be growing in the past three months
- Adults are the most consistent viewers throughout the week, adding more content targeted to adults viewers on channels that has very low viewership can significantly boost views
- Morning time, 6am-12pm and 6pm-12am are the TV peak time, this can help in structuring the TV shows slots to keep loyal viewers and maintain numbers
- Viewership can be increased by introducing contents relatable to females and younger children to get more viewers

Thank You.